NEW QUESTION: 1

Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. All domain controllers run Windows Server 2012.

The domain contains two organizational units (OUs) named OU1 and OU2 in the root of the domain.

Two Group Policy objects (GPOs) named GPO1 and GPO2 are created. GPO1 is linked to OU1. GPO2 is linked to OU2.

OU1 contains a client computer named Computer1. OU2 contains a user named User1.

You need to ensure that the GPOs applied to Computer1 are applied to User1 when User1 logs on.

What should you configure?

- A. Item-level targeting
- B. WMI Filtering
- C. Security Filtering
- D. Group Policy loopback processing mode

Answer: C

Explanation:

* GPOs cannot be linked directly to users, computers, or security groups. They can only be linked to sites, domains and organizational units. However, by using security filtering, you can narrow the scope of a GPO so that it applies only to a single group, user, or computer.

* Security filtering is a way of refining which users and computers will receive and apply the settings in a Group Policy object (GPO). Using security filtering, you can specify that only certain security principals within a container where the GPO is linked apply the GPO. Security group filtering determines whether the GPO as a whole applies to groups, users, or computers; it cannot be used selectively on different settings within a GPO.

Please choose the correct answer

Response:

- A. An EXPORT parameter named PARM1
- B. A CHANGING parameter named PARM1
- C. An OMPORT parameter named PARM1
- D. A RETURNING parameter named PARM1

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 3

You work as a database developer for www.company.com.com. The company has a database named www.company.com that is hosted on a SQL Server 2008 server. The database includes a table named Employees, which contains the details of the employees. You want to ensure that anytime any data in the Employees table is modified with an UPDATE statement, they are recorded in a table named EmployeeChanges. The EmployeeChanges table includes columns to record what the change was, who made the change, and when they made the change. What should you create to meet this need?

- A. A DML trigger that queries the inserted table
- B. A DDL trigger that queries the inserted table
- C. A DML trigger that queries the updated table
- D. A DDL trigger that queries the updated table

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Data Manipulation Language (DML) trigger can be used to capture DML statements (such as UPDATE, INSERT, and DELETE). DML triggers can use the inserted and deleted tables, which are virtual tables that hold data from the last INSERT, UPDATE, or DELETE statement. An INSERT will record the inserted data in the inserted table. A DELETE will record the deleted data in the deleted table. An UPDATE will record the original row in the deleted table, and the modified row in the inserted table. The GetDate() function can be used to retrieve the currentdate.

Answer D is incorrect. There is no such thing as an updated table. The inserted and deleted tables are used to record updated data.

Answer A and C are incorrect. DDL triggers will capture Data Definition Language statements (such as CREATE, DROP, and ALTER) but will not capture statements that modify data.
